THE reſtleſs and infatuated Enemies of Great-Britain and her Colonies, have been inceſſantly endeavouring to make the Miniſtry, the Parliament, and the whole People of England, believe that we are ungrateful, factious, and diſloyal. This is not a bare Surmiſe, but it was warranted by Letters from Gentlemen of the beſt Character on t'other Side the Water. At the ſame Time they are taking Pains to abate our Eſteem and Affection for our Brethren in England, by repreſenting them to us, as unkindly diſpoſed towards us. Thus they have played a double Game; and by ſtriving to fix a mutual Jealouſy between us, have done all in their Power to deſtroy that mutual Harmony, which every Man of every Order ought, and every Friend to both Countries will cultivate. Surely theſe Men have much to anſwer for: What worſe Treaſon can there be, next to an attempt upon the Life or Crown of the King, than to aim at poſſeſſing the Minds of his Majeſty's Miniſters, and, through them of his Majeſty himſelf, with "unfavourable Sentiments," of his moſt loyal and loving Subjects! What greater Crime againſt the State, than to be perpetually uſing baſe Arts and Calumny, to lay a Foundation of Diſcord, ſo big with Evil to the Mother Country and her Colonies! That the People of this Province, and we may venture to ſay, of all our Siſter Colonies, are diſpoſed to yield the moſt chearful Obedience to every conſtitutional Act of Great-Britain, has been notorious for many Years paſt.——We defy the Tories on this, and that Side of the Atlantic, to prove the contrary. It is as notorious, that an unconſtitutional Act, or in other Words, an act of "mere Power," ſits as awkwardly upon them as upon their Fellow-Subjects in Britain.——If Liberty is invaded either here or there, we hope there will be always Spirit enough at leaſt to complain of it. If our Charter Rights are infringed, we cannot be "tame Spectators" of it any more than our Brethren would be of a Breach of Magna Charta. We muſt and will keep our Attention to the Conſtitution, as long as it is worth attending to, and every honeſt and ſenſible man in England will juſtify and applaud us.——Knaves and fools are not worth regarding.——Be it known then, that all honeſt and ſenſible Subjects in Britain and America are united——they are as one Man, to ſupport the Crown and Dignity of his moſt ſacred Majeſty, and the Authority and Rights of Parliament, and General Aſſembly, upon the well known and eſtabliſhed Principles of the Britiſh Conſtitution——they agree to cultivate Harmony between all his Majeſty's Subjects, in every Part of the Globe, upon the Footing of Liberty and true Friendſhip.——This Crown and Dignity, this Authority, theſe Rights, this Liberty and Friendſhip, they will maintain at the Expence of every Thing dear and valuable, even their Blood.——This is the truly noble Spirit that now prevails, and whoever ſhall go about, either by open Attempts, or ſecret Machinations, to deſtroy, even in the leaſt Degree to check ſuch a Spirit, let him be accurſed, and all the People ſhall ſay, Amen. POPULUS.

BOSTON, May 11.

Extract of a Letter from a great Commoner in London, to his Friend in Boſton, that came by Capt. Freeman.

SIR,

I Have now the pleaſure to aſſure you, that the Miniſtry are well ſatisfied with your late conduct. Your Province was yeſterday ſpoken of in the Houſe of Commons with great reſpect, and your conduct commended. They will attend to no altercations of old affairs. I adviſed you, as one of the committee, that Malcolm's affair was not adopted by the Government, nor do I believe it has left any bad impreſſions on their minds. I adviſed the Speaker of the receptions of the Houſe's repreſentation of their grievances, which was pertinent, decent and modeſt, and am in hopes of good effects from it. The ſending votes of thanks to the ſeveral perſons who appeared in your favour on the late repeal was a well judged meaſure, and doubtleſs was of ſervice to your intereſt here. You do me juſtice in believing me to be a friend to America and to Liberty. That darling favourite and important cauſe will ever lay near the heart of your real friend and humble ſervant.

At the general election held at Newport, Rhode-Iſland, laſt week, the following gentlemen were choſen, viz. The Hon. Stephen Hopkins, Eſq; Governor, and the Hon. Joſeph Wanton, Eſq; Deputy-Governor.

NEW-YORK, April 30.

Copy of a Letter, dated Amboy, April 24, 1767.

LAST week was held our ſupreme court of aſſizes, at which appeared all the officers and ſoldiers of the 28th regiment, who lay under the imputation of the aſſault on Mr. Thomas Walker; but as no other teſtimony was brought againſt them but the depoſition of a villain, who had lately been preſented by the Grand Jury of Canada for wilful and corrupt perjury, they were all releaſed from their recognizances.

Extract from the Preſentments of the Grand Jury of Canada.

ARTICLE VII.

THAT by the Alibi of Major Diſney proved yeſterday in court, Mr. Thomas Walker, and Mrs. Walker his wife, have been guilty of perjury, for that they did on oath poſitively ſwear, that the ſaid Major Daniel Diſney in diſguiſe, was in the houſe of the ſaid Thomas Walker, when an aſſault was committed on him the ſaid Thomas Walker, on Thurſday the 6th day of December, in the year of our Lord one thouſand ſeven hundred and ſixty-four, between the hours of eight and nine of the clock in the evening of that day.

ARTICLE VIII.

THAT George MacGovock, now or late a ſoldier in his Majeſty's 28th regiment, is guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury, for that he at ſundry times and places, being under oath legally adminiſtred, did commit perjury, and particularly yeſterday, being the eleventh day of March, in open court, did poſitively ſwear, he was preſent at the aſſault committed on Mr. Walker the ſixth day of December, one thouſand ſeven hundred and ſixty-four; and that he did carry intelligence of the ſaid aſſault from the ſaid Walker's houſe to Capt. Payn and Lieut. Tottenham, who were then at the houſe of Serjeant Mee, and for that the ſaid Mac Govock did then and there utter divers other wilful and corrupt perjuries. Signed, SAMUEL MACKAY, Foreman.

Montreal, March 12, 1767.

Montreal, 14th March, 1767.

I Do hereby certify the above to be a true copy of the preſentments made by the Grand Jury, and by me openly read in court on the 12th inſtant.

Given under my hand,

DAVID LYND, Deputy Clk. of the Crown for the Province of Quebec.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated March 21, 1767.

"We have had ſeveral meetings about paper currency, both among ourſelves as a committee for that purpoſe, and with the ſeveral agents of the province, and in my opinion, inſtead of going forward, we rather have the retrograde proſpect, and I doubt there will be no act for a currency this year, as a legal tender. As to American buſineſs, I obſerve through the whole, great langour and dejection, every one looks on his concern thither with a heavy heart; what will be the iſſue time muſt divulge."

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.

Extract of a Letter from London to a Gentleman in this City, dated February 12, 1767.

"I am informed that the miniſtry do not intend to take into conſideration the ſupplying the colonies with a paper-currency, unleſs ſtrongly urged to it by the American merchants. They, indeed, in conſequence of the importunity of their friends and correſpondents in the colonies, have had ſeveral meetings and conſultations about it, which have ended in a very partial regard to their own ſecurity, without the leaſt conſideration of thoſe who reſide in the colonies, whoſe properties may be injured by the depreciation of paper-money. The repreſentation they agreed to make, and recommend to the miniſtry, was to this effect, viz. To repeal the late act of parliament of the fourth of his preſent Majeſty; but with the addition of a clauſe, by which it is declared, "That paper bills of credit ſhall not be a "legal tender for the payment of any ſterling debts, or "contracts whatſoever, already made, or to be made, by "or with, or in the name and behalf of any perſon or per-"ſons reſiding in the kingdom of Great-Britain;" with other reſtrictions, &c. From hence you may ſee, ſhould this ſcheme take place, that in ſome of the colonies ſuch quantities of paper-money might be iſſued, as would greatly depreciate its value, which they will have the liberty of doing, provided the Engliſh merchants are made ſecure of receiving the full value of their ſterling contracts, without the leaſt regard to debts of the ſame value contracted among ourſelves.

"With this propoſal a committee of merchants, a few days ſince, waited upon the miniſtry, to beſpeak their countenance for its paſſage through the houſe; but I hear they met with but a cold reception, and were given to underſtand, that the government had little encouragement to extend its favours to America, conſidering the returns that had been made to the unexampled lenity that had been ſhewed them the laſt year in the affair of the ſtamps; alluding to the conduct of New-York, in refuſing to comply with the act of parliament reſpecting the quartering ſoldiers, &c.——In ſhort, the miniſtry threw cold water upon the propoſal for the preſent: And whether the merchants will renew their application, I know not, being themſelves much diſobliged at a petition from the New-York merchants, complaining of the arrangements lately made in the American trade, about which thoſe in England had laboured indefatigably, and with the beſt intentions in the world, to do them real ſervices.

"The addreſs of the New-York aſſembly to their governor, has made a great noiſe and diſturbance throughout this kingdom, in all companies and converſations; inſomuch, that it is generally ſaid, they are in a ſtate of rebellion, and are endeavouring to throw off their dependence, &c. I hear the miniſtry are in great and deep concern about it.—— Moſt people are of opinion they will certainly enforce the execution of the act of parliament, and, to that end, will ſend over troops, ſhips, &c. the conſequences of which I moſt ſincerely dread in every light in which they can be viewed, either as an infringement of the liberties of the people, or, in the caſe of reſiſtance, for the miſeries ſuch a conduct muſt neceſſarily be productive of.——— It is ſaid the miniſtry wait the arrival of Lord Chatham from Bath, where he has been long detained by the gout, in order to take a final reſolution with regard to this matter, and to concert meaſures for the execution.——God grant they may be favourable to the colonies.——Our province, I ſhould tell you, has acquired reputation with the miniſtry for their behaviour upon this occaſion, and I hope they will continue to deſerve it upon all future ones, that do not ſo immediately ſtrike at fundamentals as the ſtamp-act did; and yet ſo infatuated are the people here, as to make no diſtinction between one colony and another, but to involve the whole continent in the miſcarriage of one very ſmall part of it."

Extract of a Letter from London, dated February 14.

"At preſent I have very little to ſay with regard to news; for though the Parliament hath been aſſembled a great while, yet they have done hardly any publick buſineſs. Lord Chatham being ſtill confined to Bath by his illneſs, Charles Townſhend, it is ſaid, has given a great miniſter ſo much offence, that it is imagined he will ſoon be diſplaced, and ſucceeded by Lord North, as chancellor of the exchequer.——But there is no ſpeaking poſitively of theſe matters, every thing at preſent being at a full ſtop, till Lord Chatham's return from Bath, which has been daily expected for this month paſt. The affairs of the Eaſt-India company remain ſtill unſettled with the government. The queſtion is, Whether the territery ceded to the company in India ſhall be deemed their property, or that of the Crown; or whether they ſhall pay an annual revenue in lieu of that, and of the charges the Government have incurred in defending their ſettlements? In the mean time, their ſtock hath riſen, within theſe twelve months, from 176 to 240.

"Taxing the colonies in ſome ſhape or other, begins again to be talked of, but I hope, and believe, without foundation. Probably this may have been occaſioned by ſomewhat Charles Townſhend threw out one day in the houſe of commons to that purpoſe; for I think nothing of this nature will be ſoon attempted.——The aſſembly of New-York refuſing to comply with the act regarding the quartering of ſoldiers, ſeems to give ſome alarm, as if it indicated a throwing off their dependence on the mother country. I am really ſorry for theſe repeated miſunderſtandings, of which I ſee no end. This act, however, which was made only for two years, expires next month, when, perhaps, it may be revived in a leſs exceptionable way. I wiſh things, in general, were put upon a more ſolid and permanent footing between us; for I am certain a continuance of theſe ſquabbles will tend to the advantage of neither ſide, but will be very agreeable to our common enemies, who will, in due time, find their account in it.

"A very reſpectable fleet is now fitting out in our ports, the deſtination of which is variouſly talked of. Some think it is intended to bring the Portugueſe to reaſon, in reſpect to our trade with them; ſome, to enforce the payment of the Manilla ranſom from the Spaniards; ſome, to defend our Newfoundland fiſhery from the encroachments of the French; and ſome to overawe the colonies, and to maintain the ſupremacy of Britain over them.——Perhaps it may have ſome regard to all theſe ſervices; but this time can only diſcloſe."

Extract of a Letter from London, February 18, 1767.

"As to the buſineſs yet done in Parliament, there is nothing very material.—As alterations have been made in the late Act, reſpecting the exportation from Dominica to the ports North of Cape Finiſterre, whereby Ireland is excepted, as well as Great-Britain.—A motion was made laſt week in the Houſe of Commons, on the ſupplies for the army, that the revenues ariſing, and to ariſe, in America, be applied towards ſubſiſting the troops now there, and thoſe other regiments which it is propoſed to ſend.—Mr. Townſhend, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, among other things, urged the propriety of more troops being ſent to America, and of their being quartered in the large towns.—That he had a plan preparing, which he would lay before the houſe, for the raiſing ſupplies in America.—That the legiſlative authority here extended to every colony, in every particular.—— That the diſtinction of internal and external taxes was nonſenſe,—and that he voted for the repeal of the ſtamp-act, not becauſe it was not a good act, but becauſe, at that time, there appeared a propriety in repealing it.——He added, that "he repeated the ſentence, that the galleries might hear him; and that after that, he did not expect to have his ſtatute croſſed in America." Mr. Grenville joined him fully—"what they will do with us in the end, I cannot ſay."

KINGSTON, (in JAMAICA) January 31.

The 26th of January inſtant, came to anchor in this port, the ſloop George, Capt. Jeremiah Rogers, bound from Halifax to New-York, blown off the coaſt by ſtreſs of weather. Being obliged to put into Porto Rico the 15th inſtant, having only a few biſcuits and gallons of water on board; upon ſending the boat on ſhore to get relief, no notice being taken of the ſignal made by the ſloop, the maſter and ſailors in the boat were detained as priſoners, and the boat was ſent back by their own people, commanded by a Lieutenant of a Guarda Coſta, who boarded the veſſel, and made the Captain and all on board priſoners, with a ſtrong guard on deck; they then went into the cabbin and opened trunks and boxes belonging to the paſſengers, and carried away ſundry effects and money belonging to them, as alſo goods belonging to the veſſel: In the afternoon of the 17th inſtant, being under way, a Spaniſh frigate brought the ſloop to anchor, firſt firing a ſhot to leeward, and ſent the boat with eight or nine hands armed, commanded by a petty officer, who ordered the Captain and paſſengers to go on board the Spaniſh veſſel, which they were compelled to do; and during the time the Captain and paſſengers were on board the Spaniſh veſſel, his people were committing many acts of piracy and barbarity on board the ship. A lady was so frightened, that she fell down and was very much hurt; she was turned out of the cabbin, 'till they had rifled and taken away many things; and would not even suffer any of the people belonging to the sloop to hale the ship; and after complaining to the Captain of the frigate, no redress was obtained, but a peremptory demand was made to send on board his vessel a barrel of mackrel as a pass.

It is to be observed, that the Governor of St. Domingo was on board, who said, "it was not in his power to give any relief, being only a passenger;" it was therefore thought more prudent to leave such an inhospitable coast, than make any further attempts for relief, having a perishable cargo on board. The above account is taken from a copy of the Captain's protest.

On Thursday morning, between one and two o'clock, a great earthquake was felt in many parts of this island; but we do not hear of any damage being done.

SAVANNAH, (Georgia) JUNE 3.

John Simpson, Esq; is appointed Clerk to the Commons House of Assembly of this province, in the room of Thomas Barrington, Esq; deceased.

On Sunday the 31st ult. was married, Henry Yonge, Esq; Surveyor-General of this province, to Mrs. Mary Stedman.

Last Monday George Underwood, Charles Higdon, John M'Kilroy, Valentine Brasil, and Daniel Higdon, who were taken up as vagrants, and in whose possession several horses belonging to gentlemen in this province were found, were brought to town under a strong guard of the militia, and committed to goal, by virtue of a warrant from two justices of the peace at Augusta. A sixth, brother to the two Higdons, was killed in resisting the persons sent out to apprehend them.

The following is an extract of a letter from Augusta, dated May 29, 1767.

"Our last accounts from the Creek Country inform us of the murder of a pack-horse man, a hireling of one Scott a trader, and not himself as was reported. At a meeting with Mr. Stuart, the Indians seemed sorry for what had happened, and willing to give satisfaction; they also promised to deliver up all the runaway negroes harboured in the nation: The latter may be very easily done, but satisfaction for murder is often difficult to be obtained, on account of family connections amongst them. They say the murder was committed by an outlawd villain, and therefore hope their whole nation will not be deemed culpable. They appear very much disposed for peace. The prices of goods are settled to the satisfaction of both the Creeks and Cherokees."

LONDON,

FEBRUARY 28. Yesterday morning were married, at Whitechapel church, one William Griffin, a Journeyman Shoemaker, and Ann Moss, a servant girl. The circumstances, previous to, and attending which marriage, being somewhat singular, may be entertaining to our readers, and the following is a true relation of them: About seven months ago the parties were outasked (as it is called) at the above church; but the girl falling into an ill state of health, retarded the nuptials, and loosing her place, was very soon obliged to pawn most part of her clothes, even the buckles out of her shoes. This, tho' she recovered her health, and was willing to join hands, prevented it; she absolutely refusing to go to be married in so ragged a condition, yet incessantly pressed by her sweetheart, who, by her obstinacy, soon grew into despair, neglected his work, deposited his apparel in the same manner she had done her's, and about a fortnight ago, growing weary of his life, took the following methods to get rid of it: He first wrote a letter to Sir John Fielding, by the penny-post, purporting to come from a person at Bethnal-green, who had the night before been robbed by a foot-pad, and was obliged to go out of town, and would return by the next session, describing himself (Griffin) to be the robber, and were to be found, &c. But this scheme not answering his expectations, as upon enquiry being naturally made after the supposed author of the letter, none such could be found, he then purchased a pistol, and surrendered himself with it to Joseph Girdler, Esq; a Justice of the Peace in the King's road, and desiring him to take his confession of a robbery, which he pretended he had committed, and send him to Newgate, saying he was sorry for what he had done, but times was so hard, trade dead, &c. and he would rather die than live. Whereupon he was actually committed to Clerkenwell Bridewell from the Sunday till the Wednesday following, when he was examined at the Public-office in Bow-street, before the said Mr. Girdler, Sir John Fielding, and other Magistrates, when it appearing that the young fellow had a good character, and it was love that was the real cause of his late extraordinary conduct, and that the girl on hearing of his being committed to prison, had fell into fits, and was very ill, he was discharged, and another day appointed for him to come with his intended bride voluntarily before the two Justices, who promised their assistance in getting them married the ensuing Sunday; accordingly they both appeared, and a young Nobleman being present, on hearing the case, generously gave five guineas to Sir John Fielding's Clerk, in order to redeem their little clothes and pay the marriage dues, who went with the two young people to four different Pawnbrokers on Saturday, and redeemed them, and yesterday attended and gave Miss Moss away, to the great satisfaction of the mothers on each side, two sisters, and several neighbours and friends to the young couple; and as their noble benefactor may be pleased to know how his money was expended, he may be assured it was laid out in the following articles, viz. To redeeming the clothes for bride and bridegroom. 1l. 17s. 7d. 1-2; to wedding for Nanny, second-hand, 5 shillings; allowed her for necessary head-clothes, &c. 10s. 6d; dues at the church 10s; allowed to pay the hire of two hackney coaches, for the ancient matrons, the sisters, &c. 10s. 6d. amounting in the whole to 3l. 11s. 7d. 1-2; the remaining sum of 1l. 11s. 4d. 1-2 was given to poor Griffin, to be applied towards paying a debt contracted in paying goal fees, and furnishing a room of goods.

APRIL 4. A Woollen Manufactory is just established in the Island of Bermuda, which promises great success.

The new Edict, published at Stockholm, for enlarging the Liberty of the Press, consists of the following Clauses: That every Person shall have Permission to write and reason on all Subjects in general; on all the Laws of the Kingdom, with respect to their Utility or bad Effects; on all Alliances in which the Kingdom is engaged, whether long subsisting or modern, with foreign Powers; on their good or ill Effects; on Propositions that shall hereafter be made for concluding new ones, and on the Publication of the Alliances themselves; the secret Articles alone excepted. Liberty is granted by this Edict to treat of the Situation of Affairs in other Nations, their political Constitutions, their internal Police, their Trade, their Strength or Weakness. The Character and Manners of any People may be described; their Progress, their Errors, and their Vices may be examined; and Comparisons, in relation to Sweden, may be drawn. The Edict allows every Person to demand of all the Colleges established for the Administration of public Business, from the Senate to the Courts of the same Jurisdiction, a Communication of their Registers, or Journals, wherein the Decision of Cause is entered, and oblige them to print the same either entire or by Abridgement, together with the Opinion which each Person delivered in the Debate, and in particular the Decision of the Judges; and if any Person shall refuse to communicate such Registers, or Journals, he shall be put out of his Place. The Senate alone is to have exclusive Privilege of not communicating their Debates concerning foreign Affairs, which it is expedient should be kept secret for some Time. During the Session of the Diet, every Person is to have Liberty to make Observations on the Debates and Resolutions of each Deputation of the States, concerning any Business, whether general or particular, except such as concerns the Administration of Government; and to print any such Debate. In Consequence whereof, the King, before the calling of any Diet, is to give Orders for making out, from the Journals of the Colleges, and other Departments of the publick Administration, an exact Account of the Situation of the State in every Part, and to cause such Account to be printed. This Edict, whilst it gives full Liberty for writing any Remarks on the Swedish History, antient or modern, and for publishing any Memoirs or Anecdotes concerning foreign Countries, forbids the Publication of any Thing against the established Religion of Sweden, or the fundamental political Constitution, or the Rights and Privileges of the different Orders of the State. Personal Satires and Pasquinades, contrary to the Respect which is due to crowned Heads, or injurious to the Reputation of private Persons, are likewise forbidden by this Ordinance.

CHARLES-TOWN, JUNE 16.

Letters from West Florida, of the 12th of May, give dismal Accounts of the Distress of the Inhabitants of Mobille and Pensacola for the Want of Provisions; insomuch, that the King's Troops were put to Allowance, Rice selling from 25 to 26 Dollars the Tierce, and Bread, Flour, &c. not to be purchased for any Money.——If this Account can be depended on, a Vessel from this Port with Provisions would come to a good Market, especially as it is said Dollars are there very plenty, and to our certain Knowledge, here very scarce.

Brigadier General Haldiman is using great Deligence in fortifying the Town of Pensacola and its Environs. There were there the 22d ult. a Ship and a Snow from Campeachy, but no great Trade could be carried on with the Spaniards for Want of Goods.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

WILLIAM ADAMS, Writing Maſter;

having opened a ſchool for the inſtruction of children and youth, of both ſexes, in reading, and writing a variety of the moſt uſeful hands; vulgar and decimal arithmetic, merchants accounts, menſuration, gauging, &c. begs leave to acquaint the public, that he will teach the ſame at his houſe in ELLIOTT-STREET, (with, he preſumes) as great accuracy and diſpatch, as ever have been performed in town: He thinks it unneceſſary tautology to particulariſe on the plan on which he inſtructs youth, as it is obvious to the meaneſt capacity, that without proper methods, no proficiency can poſſibly be made; therefore will only mention that he will teach after the moſt conciſe manner: He hath taught in this province two years with the greateſt approbation; and hath written certificates for his aſſiduity during the courſe of ten years he hath been in America. Some perſons having aſſerted that it is impoſſible to teach writing in ſix weeks, at one hour per day, he will not only engage to perform the ſame, but hath in this Province made a greater proficiency, having taught a child, who could neither read nor write, to write a letter to her father in nine weeks time; this he can prove by gentlemen of veracity in town. As he will make it his chief ſtudy to compleat youth in what he profeſſes in the ſhorteſt time, he hopes to merit the favour of the public, and give general ſatisfaction to his employers.——Mrs. ADAMS will make childrens gowns, ſlips, &c. and teach them to ſew and mark; ſhe will alſo clear-ſtarch.
